 - Since R1 had touched home plate prior to the ball going into dead ball territory their run counts, B2 is returned to 2B.
 - Both a. and b.
 - Both a. and c.
- 20) In the 3rd inning the manager of Team A requests "time" and approaches the plate umpire to ask if a player who was not listed on the official line-up card at the pre-game meeting can be added to the line-up and play in the game. What is the proper ruling?
- A player listed on the team's official roster but not listed on the line-up card at the start of the game cannot be added to the line-up.
 - If the player is listed on the team's official roster, the player can be added to the line-up at the bottom of the batting order if the team is playing shorthanded or added to the available substitutes and used to replace a player in the line-up.
 - If the team is playing shorthanded and the player is listed on the team's official roster, the player can be added to the line-up in any spot in the batting order.

- The ball is dead, B5 must return to bat.
 - The ball is dead, R1's run doesn't count, and they must return to 3B.
 - The ball is dead, B5 is declared out, and R1 is allowed to score.
 - The ball is dead, R1's run scores, R2 as the runner closest to home is declared out, and B5 is awarded 1B.

R1 tags up and scores easily from 3B, while R2 leaves 2B too soon and R3 is thrown out at 2B for the third out of the inning. After the play is complete, the defensive coach makes a verbal appeal of R2 leaving 2B too soon. What is the proper ruling?
- Since this appeal is a force out, no runs shall score.
 - This is an example of an advantageous fourth out appeal. The runner is called out for leaving a base too soon and because the fourth out is the result of an appeal of a base left too soon, the run does not score.
 - Since there are three outs and R2 did not score, the appeal is not honored.
 - Since the appeal is for a fourth out, the defensive coach is given the option to select which out would be recorded as the third out. In this case, the logical choice would be R2 leaving 2B too soon in order to negate the apparent scored run.
- 29) With R1 on 1B and no outs, B2 hits a deep fly ball to F8. F8 catches the ball in the air, and their momentum carries them over or through the fence. What is the proper ruling?
- Dead ball, no catch since F8 went over the fence with the ball, 2 runs score.
 - Dead ball, B2 is out and R1 is advanced to 2B.
 - Dead ball, B2 is out and R1 is advanced to 3B.
 - Dead ball, B2 is out and R1 is advanced to home.
- 30) With R1 on 1B and two outs, B4 hits a long shot in the gap. As R1 rounds 3B they are obstructed by F5 causing them to almost completely stop. B4 tries to stretch their hit into a triple and is thrown out at 3B for the third out of the inning. When B4 is tagged out R1 is one step from touching home plate. What is the proper ruling?
- This is a timing play and since the third out of the inning was recorded prior to R1 touching home plate no run scores.
 - If, in the umpire's judgement, R1 would have reached home had there been no obstruction, R1 is awarded home and their run scores.
 - R1 was obstructed after 3B so they are awarded 3B and B4 is returned to 2B.
 - Due to the obstruction on R1, they are awarded home and B4 is awarded 3B. Play continues with two outs, B3 on 3B and R1's run scoring.
- 31) Which of the following would count as a charged conference for the defense?

 - All of the above.
- 33) Team A has no outs and B4 is due to bat. However, B5 bats and reaches first base safely. B4 then comes to bat and has a 1-2 count when Team B informs the umpire that Team A is batting out of order. What is the proper ruling?
- B4 is called out for not batting in their proper position, B5 remains on base and B6 comes to bat with a new count and 1 out.
 - B5's improper at bat was legalized when a pitch was thrown to B4. B5 remains on base, and B6 is the proper batter with a 1-2 count.
 - Once a pitch is thrown to B4 it legalizes their at bat so B4 is the proper batter, once they complete their at bat B6 will be the next batter as B5 is still on base.
 - None of the above.

- 34) With R1 on 3B and R2 on 2B and one out, B4 hits a fly ball to center field. F8 catches the ball and R1 legally tags and touches home plate. R2 is safe on a close play at 3B. After R1 has touched home and the play on R2 is over, the defense appeals that R2 left 2B early and the umpire rules R2 out. What is the proper ruling?
- The appeal on R2 is a force out for the third out of the inning, therefore R1's run does not score.
 - The appeal play on R2 is a timing play, since R1 had touched home plate prior to this out being recorded R1's run would score.
- 35) Which of the following is true about an EP?

- A batter-runner being called out prior to reaching first base or any other runner forced out due to the batter becoming a batter-runner. On an appeal play, the force out is determined when the appeal is made, not when the infraction occurred. Therefore, if the batter-runner or trail runner is put out prior to an appeal, the out on the appeal will not be considered a force out.
 - A runner being put out by a tag, called out for passing a runner or a live ball appeal prior to the lead runner touching home plate.
 - A preceding runner is declared out on an appeal play.
 - All of the above.

The pitcher standing in the circle receives the ball from the catcher, the batter-runner touches 1B and immediately runs to 2B. The pitcher watches the batter-runner go to 2B but makes no play. Once the batter-runner reaches 1B, R1 remains motionless off the base watching F2 and B2 running to 2B. What is the proper ruling?
- Call "Time" and return B2 to 1B and R1 to 3B.

 - Call the runner safe immediately as the fielder missed the tag and once the runner passes home plate they can no longer be appealed for missing the plate.

 - The ball is live and all play stands, and time is called when the ball is returned to the infield and all playing action has ceased.
